There is still a chance to contribute to the Armistice Centenary public art project, by creating and sharing your own digital poppy tribute via the Queensland Armistice Centenary website <https://poppies.premiers.qld.gov.au/poppies/>

Digital poppy dedications created by Queenslanders will be incorporated into a virtual reflection pool on the website, and will also be displayed during the Armistice Centenary commemorations in Brisbane alongside the final art installation.

Visitors to the digital reflection pool are also invited to click on existing poppies to read how other Queenslanders are remembering those who served during the First World War.
